CONCEPT

The unique views and the caved rooms of this Cycladic holiday house inspired Alina Tsolakakis to create an ideal hotel for newlyweds. Having already three extra rooms, Alina envisioned a boutique hotel that would combine comfort with style, a place that fills guests with positive energy and calmness.

THE REALIZATION

During the renovation of the building into a hotel, rooms were converted into suites while a new building was added. Alina kept an interior extension, allowing the building to maintain its traditional elements. She added touches of colour inspired by the colours of Santorini: Aegean blue, volcanic orange, and sunset red.

The interior and exterior of Alta Vista Suites are whitewashed, reflecting the warm light of the Greek sun. The exterior was very carefully designed with the pool to give the impression of swinging among the sea and the sky, and the different levels and small steps remind us of classical Cycladic streets.

The suites' transformation and unique design drew the attention of the Greek and international press. Alta Vista Suites has been mentioned in magazines such as Condé Nast as one of the world's best boutique hotels.
